Instruction of AKBAR JOOJE program:

This program has a main menu that you can choose one of the branches that is given below:

1.food

2.orders

3.customers

4.exit

1.food

In food branch you can add any food that you want it to be in your food menu. Also you can print the menu or search a food in the menu.

2.orders

In orders branch you can add and remove an order that you want by its order number. Also you can see all of the orders simultaneously by choosing "print orders".

3.customers

In this branch you can insert a new customer to the list, also you can search a customer in the list by typing its username, and also you can see all the customers list in alphabetic order.

There are a couple of points that you have to be aware of them:

1)Don't use orders branch if you don't have food list or when you don't have any customer in your customer list.

2)orders branch just work when you enter a customer username that is available in customers list, so when you want to add order for a new customer, first add his/her information to customers list and then use add order for him/her.

3.Be careful when you use searching or removing options, just in removing order option you have to use order number but in other searching or removing options, you have to use username of the customer.